

Yale, New Haven Intertwined With Day Of Tragedy

Helps A Fellow Democrat

The President is greeted by U.S. Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, left, and Gov. John N. Dempsey upon his arrival at the Stratford Airport in October last year to conduct a four-hour whirlwind tour on behalf of Ribicoff's campaign. Ribicoff, the President's first cabinet officer, was then running for the office he now holds.

The Happiest Days Of Marriage

In a happier time, the President and Mrs. Kennedy, right, are shown leaving church after their marriage in Newport, R. I., in 1953. At left, they are seen in Washington earlier this year, a few months before their 10th wedding anniversary.

At left, President Kennedy appears in football uniform of Dexter School, a private elementary school in Brookline, Mass., he attended. Picture was taken in 1927.

.... Laughing With Ex-Presidents

with ex-President Dwight D. Eisenhower, and at right, with ex-President Harry S. Truman.

.... Noted For Strong Gestures

Finger pointed characteristically toward his audience, President Kennedy addresses a crowd on the New Haven Green during his October, 1962 visit, his last appearance in this city. The President had spoken before a New Haven Green assemblage once before, that during his 1960 campaign for office.
